

Wildmakers

Maule Valley, Chile

Winemaker: Jose Miguel Sotomayor & Luca Hodgkinson

Region: Maule Valley, Chile

Location: Maule Valley, Chile

Appellation: San Javier DO

Comavida Vineyard. Planted on silty clay soil, with an average vine age over 100 years old, own rooted, and dry farmed.

Fruit is destemmed, fermented with native yeast in barrell, stainless and ampfora. Hand harvested, aged in 600L new and used french oak, amphora and stainless steel, for 12 months, up to two years, with another year in bottle before release.

Practicing Organic

58% Carignan & 42% Garnacha

About the Winery/Winemaker

Best friends Luca Hodgkinson and José Miguel Sotomayor have consulted on the vineyards and wines of many of Chile's best known labels. Eventually they got sick of conventional winemaking and set out to create their own brand that took put the planet and consumer at their forefront. Wildmakers is their collaborative project showcasing some of their favorite vineyards in the country. The pair favors old dry-farmed Spanish varietals from the Maule and Itata Valleys. All their wines are Free of pesticides and herbicides or any type of synthetic products (analyzed and certified by an external laboratory). Total sulfur <50 ppm. From 100% organic vineyards.

